Questionable Attitude of Authorities

Science Faculty Acts Contrary to Spirit of its Previous Resolution

THOSE ENLISTING MAY NOT GET YEAR

Volunteers Must Pass Supps. or Repeat Their Year on Their Return

What would appear to be a remarkable volte face in the attitude of the Faculty of Applied Science towards students who intend to enlist has developed in correspondence which has been issued from the Dean's Office during the past few days. It will be remembered that but a short time ago Dean Adams issued the following statement:

The following notice has been posted by the Faculty of Applied Science in regard to the McGill Overseas Company:

In view of what seems to be considerable misunderstanding on the subject, the Faculty of Applied Science hereby intimates that it will extend to the students enlisting in the McGill Infantry Company the same favorable consideration that it has already given to other men entering active service.

The procedure followed has been to at once allow the year, or the degree, to students in reasonable standing, as soon as they enlist.

FRANK D. ADAMS, February 22nd, 1915.

Acting upon this intimation of generous treatment from the authorities, a number of men who were in reasonable standing, joined different units for overseas service, thinking themselves quite safe in the knowledge that they would proceed to their next year upon their return, without the necessity of passing any examinations whatsoever. In compliance with regulations all the men who enlisted wrote to the Faculty applying for their standing. Below is the answer which they received.

Dear Sir,—I have received your letter of the 1st inst., stating that you have a commission in the 1st Regiment, and asking whether the Faculty would allow you your standing in your year's work.

I have much pleasure in stating that if you go on Overseas service you will be allowed to enter the Fourth Year upon your return, provided that you can show that you are qualified to do so.

Wishing you every success and a safe return, I remain,

Yours very sincerely,

(Sgd.) F. D. ADAMS.

Not a few enlisted Science students are now wondering just where they are at. Several feel that they owe it to their parents to see that they obtain their year before enlisting and would never have enlisted if they had not been certain they would receive the consideration from the Faculty official in its first proposition.

DR. STANSFIELD GIVES LECTURE ON METALLURGY.

A very successful meeting was held last night of the Montreal Metallurgical Association, in the Physics Building.

An address was given by Dr. Stansfield on the "Microscopic Study of Metals," in which he showed the importance of the compound microscopes in the discovery of the composition of metals.

The metals to be examined are flat and polished with rouge and water and acid is put on so as to bring out an etching effect. Metals are opaque but by this etching system, their true structure can easily be seen by the microscope.

Dr. Stansfield ended his address by discussing the composition of alloys and their structure, and then proceeded with some interesting photographic slides of various metals taken microscopically. The meeting then came to a close.

Annual Meeting of Association Held Last Evening in Strathcona Hall

SPLENDID RECORD OF THE PAST YEAR

The annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. was held in the Hall last night, and was rather poorly attended. The retiring president, G. H. Fletcher, presided. The reports of the various committees were received and the election of officers for the coming year took place.

Although working under difficulties, the like of which have never been before faced, the Association, under the able leadership of Mr. Fletcher, has, during the past year, done splendid work. Of the original board who were elected a year ago, only two have survived to the present, many having heard the call to arms. The amount of time devoted by the students to military matters has materially affected the work of the Y.M.C.A., but notwithstanding this the directors have endeavored to carry out, as far as possible, the ordinary (Continued on page 4.)

New Stadium Discussed by The Council

Proposition to be Laid Before the Students' Society is Decided Upon

HOW THE STADIUM WILL BE MANAGED

Work on "Daily" Facilitated by Granting of Constitution

The regular meeting of the Students' Council was held last evening and several matters of importance were discussed. Mr. G. McDonald, of the Graduate Society, was admitted and the matter of the management and control of the new McGill stadium was brought up. After a lengthy discussion the following proposition was approved of by the Council, and will be placed before the Student Body at the semi-annual meeting, viz:

"That a committee of management should be selected from the Graduates' Stadium Society. The students' Council should also nominate two representatives to attend the meeting of the committee of management."

2. "That all the revenues from stadium arising from activities directed by the Students' Council shall be under control of the Students' Council and the controller of the Students' Council who shall be appointed by the committee of management—and shall be distributed as follows:

Firstly, in payment of the interest upon the original amount of the loan, interest upon any reduced amount of the loan to be added to the sinking fund (as hereinafter provided). If the revenues from the stadium are not sufficient, the interest will be met by the guarantors.

Secondly, to pay for the administration and upkeep of the property arising out of student activities. If the revenues are not sufficient for this purpose, this expense will be paid from the Students' Athletic fees.

Thirdly, Any balance over and above these charges up to $7,500 will be divided as follows: One-third towards a sinking fund for the retirement of the loan, and two-thirds to the Students' Council for athletic purposes. Anything over $7,500 will be allotted one-third to the Students' Council and two-thirds to create a special fund for the future development and extension of the property.

The next matter was the granting of a constitution for the McGill Daily. The want of some sort of regular basis for work has been felt for a long time by all interested in the progress and welfare of the Daily. The constitution provides for a managing board, a news board, a circulation manager, etc. A full copy of the new constitution will appear in the Daily within the course of a few days.

The attention of the Council was called to the fact that the annual meeting of the major clubs will take place Friday evening, March 12th, in the Union, and it is strongly recommended that every student be present. Very important matters will be discussed—matters which should interest every student.

6. PLATFORM—The Union undoubtedly should be the headquarters for all student activities and the common meeting ground for all the students of the University. Some years these functions are fulfilled more than in others.

It would be my sole endeavor to make this coming year of 1915-16 the most successful in the history of the Union, not only with an eye to the fulfillment of those objects for which the building stands, but with careful attention to internal economy and management, as well.

My energies would be concentrated solely for this purpose and if elected, I would utilize my full time to this end, backed up by the House Committee.

5. PLATFORM—During my two years' service as a member of the Union House Committee, several points have suggested themselves to me, which, if put into force, would make not only for the smoother running of the Union, but also for the comfort of its frequenters.

One of the principal reforms should be the partial revision of the Constitution. The Constitution as it now stands, was far from ideal, prevailing before the Universal Fee. These conditions have now all been changed and there is now no more need for many of the provisions which serve only as a hindrance to the executive.

One change that is absolutely necessary is in regard to the Annual Meeting of the Union. The constitution, as

CANDIDATE FOR VICE-PRESIDENCY OF THE UNION.

1. AGE—22 years.

2. NAME OF GRADUATING SCHOOL—Buckingham Academy.

3. COLLEGE ACTIVITIES AT MCGILL—Second Football team.

4. PLATFORM—It is only with considerable hesitation that I here state a policy which I shall endeavor to sincerely follow out, if I should be successfully returned as Vice-President of the Union at the coming elections. It seems to me a most difficult task to lay down any better platform than would ensure a greater prosperity to the Union, than that which was adopted by the members of the executive that held office during the past year.

I have been a Union supporter since my Freshman year at college. It has been my pleasure to see it grow more and more popular from year to year, and it is my intention, if elected, to endeavor to further the popularity amongst the students.

It seems to me that there are two important points that should always be before the mind of all members of the executive and they are these: that the strictest economy should be adhered to in all transactions, but on no account should the efficiency of the Union or the comforts of its patrons be subjected to a secondary place. This year's executive have carried the affairs of the Union to a most successful issue and it is my intention, if elected, to follow closely their policy.

THE WORLD OVER.

The New Department of The Montreal Herald.

Mr. Asquith, Mr. Balfour, Sir Edward Grey, Mr. Lloyd George or Mr. Churchill makes a great speech. The cables carry a summary and the speech itself is lost to Canadians. The World Over in The Montreal Herald will amplify the despatch. An important scientific discovery affecting X-Rays or the cure of Tuberculosis is proclaimed in Europe. The cable despatch gives only a vague idea of what it is. The World Over in The Montreal Herald will give the important details and make the discovery intelligible. War news often chokes the cables much is lost to the Canadian public.

Ilc. The World Over in The Montreal Herald makes up for the shortage by tracing the deficiency and applying the remedy. The World Over in The Montreal Herald should be read by every man and every woman who wants to keep abreast of the times. The World Over is a new departure. The Montreal Herald has secured the service. "The World Over" began in The Herald yesterday. The enterprise is unique in journalism.

Fair Plays Science Faculty

The general attitude of the various Faculties of the University towards students who have enlisted has been heretofore most generous, and those who have enlisted have found little cause for complaint in this respect at least. Several cases have recently been brought to light, originating in the Faculty of Applied Science, which would seem to be entirely opposed to the treatment which has been meted out to those who have joined the colours.

Some weeks ago the Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science issued a statement which is reproduced in another column of this issue of the McGill Daily, calling attention to the fact that students of the Faculty in reasonable standing would be at once allowed their year or permitted to proceed to their degree, as soon as they enlisted. In the face of this agreement between Faculty and student which at the time appealed to one and all because of its reasonable terms, comes an announcement from the same Faculty made by letter to more than one student in "reasonable standing" intending to enlist to the effect that they will be granted their year upon their return "provided that they can show they are qualified to do so." In other words, this means that enlisting students must pass their sessional examinations before enlisting (which is the only method by means of which they may "qualify") or else be compelled to take supplements or repeat their year upon return. By which announcement are students who intend to proceed to the front to interpret the real attitude towards them of the Faculty? An explanation to these men and to the students of the Faculty at large would seem to be in order. Fair play must be received by those who are to become our representatives at the front.

As Others See Us

Canada is by way of being a playground for many Americans. During the Autumn the Canadian woods, from Maine to Northern Ontario, are filled with our cousins from the South; and even during the Winter hardly a week passes when half a dozen or more college professors do not find their way to our Campus. It is, especially, the University men who find so much to attract them in Canada. One very regular visitor has just returned to Boston. He is a professor at Harvard. What he has said of his last trip cannot fail to be of interest to every reader of the Daily. He writes:

"I was more delighted than I can say, and exceedingly impressed by all that I saw at McGill. It is, indeed, a splendid thing that the University, staff, undergraduates, and graduates alike so quickly recognized the exact meaning of the situation into which the sudden outbreak of the war, in August, placed them. And no one can fail to admire the willingness and thoroughness with which all have assumed and effectively met the responsibility which the war created—after all, you know, the cause for which you are fighting is that of every country which enjoys responsible government."

"You at McGill must be very proud to realize that you were the first to have a training corps for officers—what a splendid idea it is, I wish that we might have some thing of the same sort here. Yours, too, was the first hospital to be offered—I wish that I could be with you. I was so pleased to see that more than one American had applied for service with it. Then the number of McGill men who have gone with the signalers, with the field ambulances, with the signallers, with the field ambulances, with the Army Service Corps, and with the foot, horse and artillery of the First and Second contingents is splendid!"

"But the thing which I liked above all others was your Overseas Company. What a fine body of men it will be! I saw the Battalion on two of its parades and watched their work; then at the recruiting meeting of the Canadian Club I heard Captain Barclay. Officers like himself and those with him, men like those whom I saw in the Battalion, together will make splendid soldiers. There is no doubt that in this war, just as in our Civil War, the University men will show that they have hands as well as brains, and the will to use them both."

"Was I right in my understanding of the qualifications which recruits for the McGill Overseas Company must possess? As I understand it, graduates or undergraduates of any University, and those who are their immediate friends, will be accepted if they are physically fit. I ask the question because it has been asked me more than once. I have a sneaking suspicion that there is at least one healthy young American near me who is considering whether it might not be a very desirable thing to help along a good cause, and at the same time, see something of the greatest game on earth, in a company of husky, free-hearted Canadians."

The Spirit

"I will study and get ready and maybe my chance will come," said Abraham Lincoln. A similar spirit has animated the medical students this session.

Last autumn numbers of medical students joined the McGill Battalion voluntarily and without any special inducement from the Faculty. They were, however, in good company, for their professors were already there, men whose names are familiar wherever the theory and practice of scientific medicine is advocated.

Later, they enlisted unconditionally with the General Hospital and stretcher and ambulance drill, at a time when no one was certain that he would be chosen to go with the unit.

Now the selection has been made and one sees that this hand-picked group, these "extraordinary privates," as Dr. Adams has called them, are men representative, not only of the Faculty of Medicine, but of the whole University. The list includes students who are well-known in executive capacities, in athletics, in literary work, in scholarship, religious activities and in plain, everyday good-fellowship.

To not a few this decision has been equivalent to the renunciation of a long-determined line of action; to many it will mean the thwarting of their professional careers; to some it will mean taking years from their own lives, so abnormal will be the conditions of stress and strain under which they must live and labour. Yet, in

Architectural Society Hears Fine Address

"Mural Decoration" Is Subject of a Fine Address by Mrs. P. A. Traquair

PEOPLE EXHIBIT GREAT VITALITY

Lecture Was Illustrated by a Well Selected Series of Lantern Slides

Before an audience of over one hundred Mrs. P. A. Traquair delivered a most interesting and instructive address on "Mural Decoration."

Mrs. Traquair, speaking first of her visit to Canada, said she was very glad to see such vitality exhibited in the people and trusted it would serve in a great measure to lift up and keep alive the arts which she was sure were to be found here. Proceeding, she described to what extent the subject in hand and extended and pointed out that it would take a series of lectures to do real justice to such a topic. Mrs. Traquair, in dealing with the subject, showed first how the crude materials of various lands were used by the natives in their decoration. The main point brought out was the natural use of the material which came to hand. The lecture was illustrated by a well selected series of lantern slides which Mrs. Traquair used in conjunction with her talk. These slides showed many tile patterns. These patterns, said the speaker, came down to us from tradition and had an extraordinary effect in later work. She pointed out the distinction between the Mohammedan and Hindu work, describing the various colours used and their mode of utility.

The influence of the work on book work as far as designs were concerned was also shown to be very great.

Next came the development of design on stone. This was not only traced from the Egyptian sources, but also dealt with as far as the technique of the material and subject matter was concerned. Mrs. Traquair explained that at first the design was sunk into the stone thus producing sharp shadows; on the other hand, in later work one could see that the design was left in the raised state due to the cutting away of the surrounding material. These designs were usually cramped, due to the fact that the artist desired to express too much in a given space. Colours were also used to bring forth the subject matter. The designs, it should be remembered, always signified something in Egyptian work. They were truly "story" pictures executed by the artist in the best manner in which he knew how. Greek work, unlike Egyptian, showed not so much of this cramped, pictorial effort, but on the other hand tended to do more in the round and also for the pleasure derived in the execution, by the Greek skill.

Due to lack of public feeling to-day our walls are usually devoid of any such decoration as seen in Egyptian work, etc. In dealing with Greek work, the speaker showed how certain efforts were obtained. For instance, by the accentuation of certain lines the whole figure was brought out in much more striking form. Prominence was given to any place where there was a strong angle, especially so with figures in action. On the other hand, with figures in quiet poses, the lines of the drapery only were worked up to break the monotony which would have been certain to have resulted otherwise.

Following this, Mrs. Traquair spoke of painting in relation to mural decoration. In this work, books and walls went hand in hand again. From the purely decorative panels the speaker showed how gradually the work became pictorial in the form of perspective. This form was never very successful due to the fact that the picture only looked well in one position. Mrs. Traquair then spoke of such artists as Giotto, whose work expressed feeling rather than realism.

In speaking of Fra Angelico, whose works may be seen in San Marco Museum, Florence, she showed that this artist truly understood the real spirit which governed the world and this showed in his work. Art always expressed the temperament of the people at the time. Thus, in medieval times, the work was pompous and full of glory. In comparison to more modern work it is filled with subject matter. To-day, on the other hand, the tendency is an aim at simple unity.

Then with Da Vinci and Raphael we get the germ of composition. Distinct from other artists stands Michelangelo. His work may be seen in the vault of the Sixtine Chapel, Rome. Eventually, the artists forgot to follow their material and began to play tricks with the subject matter, such as making one believe that the pictures were seen through holes in the walls; when this happens one knows that the work is on the decline.

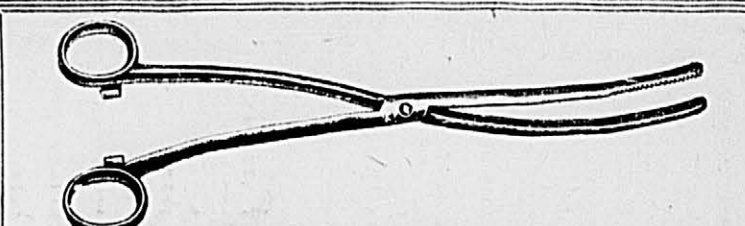

Mrs. Traquair advocates the work done directly on the wall. This was necessary for the artist to get the true spirit of the thing for to execute a work of art directly on the wall, and to do the same thing in a studio were two different things altogether. The feeling in each case, Mrs. Traquair, would be entirely different.

Following the lecture a vote of thanks was offered by Mr. Perrault, seconded by Mr. Booth, the meeting then adjourned.

McGill Twenty-Four Months Ago

From the McGill Daily of March 11, 1913

Mr. S. H. Dixon, Law '14, will be the next president of the Students' Council, since Mr. Frank Common has withdrawn his name from the contest. Mr. Dixon is the son of Mr. Wellington Dixon, the principal of the Montreal High School. He entered McGill in the Arts class of 1911. His business ability was shown by his connection with the 1911 Annual and the Junior Dance Committee. As a member of the executive of the football club, Mr. Dixon was in close touch with college athletics for two years. Mr. Common, when interviewed by the Daily, stated that his retirement had been made only after serious consideration.

ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY ANNOUNCE

The budget of the University of Illinois for the year ending June 30, 1915, has been approved at $2,800,000. In view of this sum it is interesting to note that just 47 years ago, almost to the day of the budget's approval, instruction in the institution was begun with three instructors and 57 students. At present the state university numbers 6,004 students and 777 instructors.

Touching Plea From Serbians

Mme. Slavko Grouitch is in America Organizing a Relief Expedition

Eight hundred thousand Serbian women and children will starve unless they can obtain grain for seed and food to work with next summer.

Mme. Slavko Grouitch, the American wife of the Serbian Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, is in this country to organize a relief expedition and she wants volunteers of college men who will go out with automobiles in June to form mobile working units.

Mme. Grouitch's appeal for funds and supplies is being backed by a number of the most influential men and women in America, and though the need is very large the interest aroused by her far-sighted and practical plans augurs well for their being carried out. But more than money is needed. Volunteers with automobiles are wanted, as are men with mechanical ability or farming experience. The automobiles are to be the property of the men who take them out; transportation will be furnished but the owner must be prepared to meet the expense of maintenance. In some cases of particular ability it may be that arrangements can be made to pay part of the expenses of members of the expedition.

"All the able-bodied men of Serbia are at the front," the appeal relates. "The women and children must plant and cultivate the crops in the spring or they will be no grain on which the nation can live next winter. But now the farms are devastated, buildings and implements burned and live stock destroyed. Under these circumstances a famine is inevitable. To prevent this an American committee has been formed to supply the Serbians with food and seed and so give them a chance to save themselves."

Men interested in this expedition's plans should communicate with H. F. Armstrong, of the Danby Princeton, Princeton, N.J., giving on one side details of automobile experience and ability to meet expenses, or if interested on the other side describing their practical agricultural or mechanical knowledge and their general interest and willingness to work.

J. P. Morgan and Co., New York, are receiving subscriptions and are acting as agents for the newly-formed Serbian Relief Committee, of which the President is President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, and the chairman Brock Trowbridge. Other prominent members of the committee are Charles Scribner, Dr. Albert Shaw, Professor Pupin of Columbia, and Lawrence Lowell.

All contributions of grain, seeds, supplies or farming tools, however, should be sent care of the committee at Bush Terminal, New York.

Warneford Is Given Science

Scholarship

The Science scholarship granted by Her Majesty's Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1881, has been awarded to Mr. Francis Henry Sweeting Warneford, of Arts '15, who is taking a "B.S. in Arts" course.

This scholarship of the value of £150 sterling a year is tenable for two or, in rare instances, three years. It is limited according to the Report of the Commission, "to those branches of science such as physics, mechanics and chemistry, the extension of which is specially important for our national industries." Its object is not to facilitate ordinary collegiate studies, but "to enable students to continue the prosecution of science with the view of aiding in its advance or in its application to the industries of the country."

It is open to students of not less than three years' standing, who have shown evidence of capacity for original research, and is tenable at any university or other institution approved by the Commission.

Mr. Warneford at present intends to spend the first year of his scholarship at McGill and the second at Cambridge.

Among the previous holders of this scholarship are James A. Philp, formerly Professor of Engineering at Queen's and now at the front in command of the Engineer Company, which that University sent to the firing line at the outbreak of war. He was awarded the scholarship in 1893. Another professor of the Queen's staff who held the exhibition in 1897 is James L. W. Gill, whose aeroplane recently came to grief.

Percy Norton Evans, who held the award in 1891, is at present Professor of Chemistry and director of the Chemical Laboratory at Purdue University. He is a brother of Neil Norton, Professor of Chemistry at McGill.

F. M. G. Johnson, at present Professor of Physical Chemistry here, obtained the scholarship in 1906.

R. R. McClung, 1901, was another of the former scholarship holders who returned to McGill as a member of the faculty, but he has since gone to the University of Manitoba. A. N. Shaw, 1911, now instructor of Physics at Macdonald College, held the

Miss Waterman Wins Public Speaking Prize

Twenty Competitors From All Years Speak on Widely Varied Subjects

The public speaking contest held yesterday afternoon, was one of the most interesting and well attended meetings that the Delta Sigma Society has held this season. There were in all nineteen entries, all the four years and the partial society being well represented. The subjects were very various and entertaining. There were tales from Ceylon, Belgium, Jersey Island and the Western Canadian prairies, besides one excursion far from any of these mundane spots, and into the realms of Fable Land.

"The Apology of a Fool," the speech which won the first prize was given by the president, Miss Waterman, who, if she is the fool that she proved herself to be, must be one of the people who gave rise to the belief that genius is akin to madness. For her apology was certainly that of a very clever fool.

Miss Gibb was awarded the second prize for her speech on "A Rush Suggestion." The speaker took for her subject the dangers of looking at being happy as a duty and ventured to disagree with Robert Louis Stevenson's well-known saying on this subject.

Other speeches worthy of special mention, were Miss Doig's "Reflection from the top of a church tower," and Miss Story's on "Girls." These were both very original in spite of the rather hackneyed sound of the latter title.

Some of our own pet faults were pointed out by Miss McCaw, under the title, "Spineless Spinsters." Miss McCaw gave a very realistic and spirited picture of an R.V.C. undergraduate meeting which appealed strongly to those of her hearers who had had experience in such meetings.

One of the most fanciful and pleasant sketches was Miss Thomson's "Fable Land," which took us far away from this land of lectures and examinations, to the realms of fancy, there to meet our old friends, Margie Tulliver, Little Lili, Alice in Wonderland, and a host of others.

The decision of the judges was announced by Dr. Leacock, who, after keeping his audience on the tenter hooks of suspense for several minutes, awarded the inter-year cup to the seniors. This means that the graduating year have won the interclass banner by three points to the one of any of the other years. Three cheers for the seniors.

War Summary

These Articles Are Specially Written for the McGill Daily and are Published Each Day.

FRANCE

In the region of Arras the situation remains unchanged. In the Champagne district advances made a few days ago are still held by the French troops and a slight advance has been made near Perthes. Advances have also been made northeast of Mesnil. In the Argonne, at Fontaine Madame, the French trenches were advanced thirty metres. Near Four-de-Paris heavy fighting is going on.

RUSSIA

The German army has been pushed back six miles in the region of Grodno and in the region east of Augustovo are less than twelve miles from the Prussian frontier. The swift advance of the Russians has caused the Germans to abandon a number of guns. Russian aviators have successfully attacked the German positions at Szczuczyn and Stawiski.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

Austrian forces have made slight advances north of the Lupkow Pass. In the Stanislaw region Austrian reverses have offset the advances above mentioned.

TURKEY

On Sunday the Russian Black Sea fleet bombarded and severely damaged the Turkish ports of Eregh and Kostu. Fort Namazieh is now being bombarded by the British fleet which has been reinforced by the superdreadnought Warspite. The ships have been hit several times but no serious damage has been done.

BRITISH EMPIRE

The Admiralty announce the sinking of the German submarine U-20 by the torpedo-boat destroyer Ariel. This is the seventh German submarine sunk since the commencement of the war. In German South Africa the British forces have occupied Ukamas.

GENERAL

It is reported that an Italian squadron has put to sea bound for the Dardanelles. The German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich arrived in Newport News, Va., in need of supplies and coal. The United States Government has not yet decided what action to take in the matter.

FRANK COMMON NEW PRESIDENT OF Y.M.C.A.

Policy of the association. About one hundred and fifty men have been enrolled in different Bible Study Groups, and the Mission Study Classes have also been held, although this branch of work has been somewhat neglected, owing to a greater concentration of effort in increasing the number of men enrolled in Bible Study.

The Sunday afternoon Religious Services were discontinued because of financial difficulties, but five meetings were held during both sessions, with an average attendance of about 150. The greatest and most beneficial part of the work this year was in connection with the Mott campaign, which without a doubt, had a modifying and uplifting influence upon student thought and life in the University.

The report of the House Committee shows that considerable alterations have been made in the equipment of the building. The billiard room has not been much used this year, and the bowling alley has not been opened. The residents' dinner held early in the year, and the recent Hall dance were both most successful functions. At present the waiting list of applicants for rooms in the Hall is small, but with a few exceptions, all the rooms in the House have been occupied through out the college session.

All the customary social functions have been held and have in practically every instance been better attended than has been the case in previous years. Special mention must be made of the splendid attendance at Sunday sing, this has been largely due to the efforts of Mr. Nichols. A full financial statement is not yet available, but the report submitted shows that the cash paid in as student subscriptions for the financial year, is $726. This is about $100 less than the amount actually subscribed, and will in all probability be raised by about $25 before closing of college. This is a little less than $200 behind the total student subscriptions raised last year, but is a splendid showing considering the adverse circumstances under which the canvassers were working. The financial condition of the building itself is satisfactory, and it is probable that the total deficit of the association for the year will not be large in spite of the war conditions prevailing.

The election of officers for the coming year resulted in the choice of F. Common, M.A., Law '17, as president, and the following men as members of the board of directors: Jack Farthing, Arts '18; G. H. Heslam, Arts '18; R. deW. Scott, Arts '18; W
